Thirteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Theme/Call To Worship

The readings on this Thirteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time speak of the light and life that God has brought to us.

Introduction To The Word

Wisdom 1:13-15; 2:23-24: In the first reading from the Book of Wisdom we hear proclaimed that "God did not make death." According to our Wisdom writer, it was "the envy of the devil" that brought death into the world.

II Corinthians 8:7-9, 13-15: Today's second reading is taken from a section where Paul is asking the Corinthian Christians to be generous in their giving to the poor in the Christian congregation of Jerusalem. Paul came to view the collection for the poor as a moral duty for all believers in Christ. Paul saw the sharing with the poor out of one's abundance "as a matter of equality."

Mark 5:21-43: In the Gospel reading, Mark has combined two separate miracle stories into one, and while the faith of the believers is an instrumental link between these stories, two other details are strikingly different. First, the recipients of the healing are different. Whereas the woman's faith causes her own healing, Jairus' faith moves Jesus to heal his daughter. Second, Jesus' involvement with each person is different. In the case of the hemorrhaging woman, she is healed without even Jesus' initial consent or knowledge. For Mark, one's faith in Jesus as Messiah and Son of God is inextricably linked to Jesus' power to heal and raise those who have died from the dead.
