Hiring Information and forms for Parish and Catholic School Administrators

Opportunities for employment at parishes and Catholic schools in the diocese may be posted on the diocesan website www.austindiocece.org (see links at bottom of homepage). Any job posting for a parish or Catholic school in the Diocese of Austin should identify how an applicant may apply for a posted job (e.g. send a resume, complete an application, etc.). There is no requirement that a parish or school use an employment application; however an employment application template is available upon request. Persons applying for employment at a parish or Catholic school in the Diocese of Austin should be instructed to provide the information requested in the job posting directly to the parish or school.

There is not a generic “diocesan” job application used for hiring at parishes and Catholic schools in the Diocese of Austin; additionally, the EIM application cannot serve as an application for employment.

To assist parishes and Catholic schools with the hiring process, the diocesan EIM office can run a pre-employment background check to verify that your final candidate is eligible to be hired based on the background check result [Note: for parishes/Catholic schools/agencies within the Austin city limits, a new ordinance requires that the background check be run after the candidate has been given a conditional job offer, either verbally or in writing.]

At the job interview each candidate should complete the Background Check Consent form only - the Background Check Worksheet should NOT be completed at this time. Note: For FCRA purposes, the information on this form refers to credit checks as one type of check applicant authorizes; however, credit checks are not done for most positions in the Diocese of Austin. Signed consent forms for all candidates should be securely maintained by the hiring agent until a candidate is selected to fill the position.

When a final candidate is selected [or notified of selection, if in Austin] to be given a conditional job offer, pending a clear background check result, the pastor or principal (or his/her designated EIM site administrator) contacts the applicant and fills out the information noted on the Background Check Worksheet in order to conduct the background check – do not give form to candidate to complete. The EIM site administrator (or pastor or principal) should send the completed form to the EIM office via fax, postal mail or verbally by telephone only – do not email the form. Results of the pre-employment background check will be provided to the pastor or principal noted on the form. Once the position is filled, all Background Check Consent and Background Check Worksheet forms must be destroyed for those applicants not hired. Only the Background Check Consent form for the new employee should be kept in his/her employee file.

After an individual has been hired, diocesan EIM policy states: “for new employees at any parish, Catholic school or diocesan office or agency, completing the EIM application within the first week [of employment] is a condition of continued employment”. Persons needing to submit an EIM Application for Ministry should be directed to the EIM page of the diocesan website to complete this process. New employees already in the EIM database due to previous ministry do not complete another application, but can update their current one if needed.

Your EIM site administrator can assist your new hire with the EIM process. New applicants have 60 days to attend an EIM workshop upon submission of the EIM Application, but a sooner workshop attendance requirement may be requested by the parish or school.
